The Call of the Country

Hark!

Can you hear the nation calling, with its voice on drifting breeze,
Rolling down the snow peaked mountains, whispering to the trees,
Sweeping clean the rugged plains, making pure the skies,
Howling as a night's lost soul, seeking paradise?
I hear its mournful murmurs, and its cries of gross despair,
It seeks incessant, coast to coast, searching everywhere.
The country begs for help, her burdens, see them swell?
She pleads for youthful toil to guard the freedom bell.

We of Southington High Schol, the class of '53,
Take honor as our by-law; our creed is victory,
Green and silver our colors; knowledge is our goal,
We will not fear the future; God guides our valiant fold.
We shall answer the call.

A black and white illustration on a dark background. In the upper left, there is a classical building with a series of columns and a pediment. In the center, a large, stylized bow is tied, with its loops and tails extending outwards. The entire scene is framed by a decorative border of repeating small, interlocking shapes.

We Salute You!
